

Riddle named vice-president, managing partner of Seegars Fence Co. of New Hanover County

WILMINGTON, N.C. — Seegars® Fence Company of New Hanover County, Inc. said it expects to become an even more dominate player in the Wilmington fencing industry as it announced the promotion of long-time employee Jason Riddle to vice-president and managing partner.

The promotion of Riddle follows the retirement of former vice-president Clip Davis, who announced his retirement on Feb. 1 after more than 30 years with the company.

Davis started the office in 1980 as the third Seegars Fence location, developing a business in a growing area and elevating it to the market share it enjoys today.

“Clip played such a vital role in the growing of the Wilmington (New Hanover) office, and in the growing of our corporation as a whole,” said Seegars chief operating officer Ben Seegars. “We appreciate his contribution and will always consider him part of the Seegars family.”

Riddle began his career with Seegars early in his life, working as an installer in both the Greenville, N.C. and Jacksonville, N.C. locations during his years attending college at East Carolina University.

Most recently, he worked as an estimator in the Greensboro location for two years. As the vice-president of the New Hanover office, Riddle will wear several hats in overseeing day-to-day operations, participating in sales calls, estimating future projects and managing the installation crews.

His goals will include taking a “back to basics” approach to the business; relying on straightforward selling from knowledgeable staff, coupled with a quality product line and a high level of service.

“I’ve been fortunate enough to work with Seegars for years and learn about the industry from the ground up; I couldn’t be more excited about my new position,” stated Riddle. “What I want for this company is simple – I want every single customer who has an interaction with Seegars Fence of New Hanover to have complete, 100 percent satisfaction with everything – our staff, our products and our service.”

“There’s so much opportunity in this area to create quality standardized and custom fencing solutions, and we are here to answer that call. We ask our customers to ‘demand the best,’ so we will in turn have to demand the best of ourselves and our company so that we uphold the tradition of excellence representative of the Seegars name.”

“Jason’s experience with and loyalty to our company throughout the last decade is just one of the reasons he is the perfect fit for this position,” said Sallie Batchelor, president of the New Hanover office. “His expertise and knowledge make him the perfect candidate for vice-president. I look forward to working with him to achieve new aspirations for our location.”
