Luxurious, Low-Maintenance Gates and Fencing by Enduris

Tired of wood fencing rotting, twisting and requiring constant and costly upkeep?
Haven't found anything in vinyl or composite fencing that looks remotely like wood?

Transform your yard and your lifestyle with Endwood.[®]

Endwood is the new standard in fencing. Endwood Fence Systems, manufactured by Enduris, feature the distinct appearance of hand stained redwood, cedar, or weathered barnwood, complete with variegated colors and realistic woodgrain texture that you would swear is real wood. But that's where the similarities end.

You'll enjoy the fine craftsmanship of this magnificent low-maintenance fencing for decades to come.

Is it wood, or is it Endwood?

Wood has been the go-to material for fencing in gracious neighborhoods for centuries. Historically, attempts at wood alternatives have fallen flat, with a plastic sheen that doesn't even come close to mimicking real wood.

But wood—painted, or even stained and sealed—only looks good for the first few months. It isn't long until the fence around your yard—a substantial investment—starts to look damaged and downtrodden, as the sun bleaches out all the color, and wind and rain cause the pickets and rails to twist, warp and rot.

What once appeared strong and beautiful becomes fragile, dull and weathered. Even time-consuming and costly annual maintenance—sanding, staining, painting, refastening warped pickets—won't bring back the beauty of new wood, since it is constantly subjected to the aging effects of weather.

Endwood Fencing is engineered to be impervious to the sun, wind, rain and snow.

Strength and beauty on the surface.

Our advanced manufacturing process is uniquely suited for exceptional performance when faced with the elements. The surface is protected with our exclusive HardCover™ capstock, an advanced technology that preserves the aesthetics, retains the color of the fence and provides superior stain resistance. All sides of Endwood pickets, posts and rails are protected with a high-performance coating that has been used for decades in high-end applications in the auto industry, to ensure color stability.

In fact, Endwood Fencing includes an industry first—a 30-Year Fade and Stain Warranty. With Endwood, there is no need for annual staining or sealing to maintain the rich and vibrant colors. Grass clippings and surface debris can be easily cleaned off with a garden hose.

Endwood is even stronger on the inside.

The core for Endwood pickets and rails is cellular PVC, a closed cell technology that offers superior long-term fastener holding strength compared to wood or hollow vinyl. This means you won't have pickets falling off after a wind storm, or nails popping out that have to be repaired. You also won't have any splitting pickets, or knots falling out. Our lab results prove Endwood is three times stronger than wood, when assembled in an identical manner. Our solid core also creates a moisture-resistant product, so it won't absorb moisture from rain, humidity or snow—one of the main causes of deterioration in other fence systems, i.e. wood and composites.

In addition, Endwood offers a patent-pending Stabilizing Rail System, engineered to provide durability and strength for styles or situations that may call for additional fortification. A metal insert within the core minimizes sagging and deflection.

Colors as rich as nature

It's hard to imagine a fence with such an authentic, hand-stained texture and rich colors maintaining its beauty for over 30 years, but it's true.
